

52 Killed As Liner Crashes In Flames In Southern Utah

By OTIS J. PUSEY

Bryce Canyon, Utah, Oct. 25 (AP)—A United Air Lines DC-6 plane plunged 52 persons to a fiery death shortly after noon yesterday, as the pilot lost a violent battle with unexplained flames just 1,500 yards from the safety of an emergency landing strip.

The New York-bound four-engine ship, flight 608 from Los Angeles, smashed near the rim of Tropic Canyon in Bryce Canyon National park, and exploded, scattering wreckage and bodies over an area of several hundred yards.

Trailing smoke and flames for at least 22 miles before it crashed, the giant ship plowed a smoke-blackened swath for 800 yards alongside State Highway 22, just east of the Bryce Canyon airport. The scene is in southern Utah, about 275 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Bodies Mutilated
The engines, scorched and twisted, were thrown 200 to 300 feet beyond the burned area. A piece of the tail, 15 to 20 feet long, was the largest part of the craft remaining.

The bodies, burned and unrecognizable for the most part, were horribly torn apart.

Two infants and 21 or more women were among the victims. One of the women was an expectant mother.

The mutilated remains were flung across the 7,300 foot plateau or blown into the 200-foot deep canyon just behind the impact point.

All bodies were left at the scene until this morning, with guards posted to protect them from coyotes, pending an inquest. Several groups of investigators started official probes today.

Pilot Reported Fire

Capt. E. L. McMillen, of Balboa Park, Calif., the pilot, reported by radio at 12:21 p. m. (MST), a few minutes before the crash, that fire had broken out, probably in the plane's baggage compartment, and that the cabin was filled with smoke.

Five minutes later the veteran of 15 years of flying on western routes opened his microphone and reported:

"The tail fire is going out. We may get down and we may not. Best place we can . . ."

At 12:27 he reported he had turned back for Bryce Canyon airport and said "may make it. Think we have a chance now. Approaching the strip."

Many Prominent Aboard

The next radio message came from the airport tower here at 12:32 p. m. It said:

" . . . fire one mile east."

Among prominent persons aboard the ship were:

Jack Guenther, 33, of New York, managing editor of Look magazine; William A. Galvin, New York, vice president of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America (AFL); Clement D. Ryan, president of Whitney's department store, San Diego, Calif., and former president of Montgomery Ward and company, and his wife; Mrs. Dorothy Howard, Coronado, Calif., wife of Maj. Gen. A. P. Howard, USMC, Ret.; Samuel Lilienthal and Mike Lilienthal, wealthy Chicago brothers, and their wives; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. De Bruh, an English industrialist, and his wife, and Jefferson Davis Burkett, Chicago Cardinals professional football team punting star.

Mail Campaign Will Inform Countians Of Hospital Work And Facilities; Need Funds

A public relations program that will acquaint Adams countians with the facilities, service and the problems of the Warner hospital was set in motion by the board of directors of the hospital at the October meeting in the Musselman annex Friday evening.

A list of ten to twelve thousand countians will be compiled to receive semi-annual communications from the hospital describing all phases of its service and reporting on its operation and financial condition.

The program will seek to start a flow of semi-annual and annual subscriptions to the operating fund of the hospital as a means of balancing operating deficits.

Aside from the financial aspects, the program affords the means of acquainting Adams countians with the work and accomplishments of the institution, an advantage which the directors describe as of equal long-range importance to the needed income the plan is expected to produce.

Start Program Soon
The program will be carried on throughout the year, starting in about three months, with a specified number of communications being mailed weekly.

"We have selected this sort of a program because of its constructive value in informing the people of Adams county about their hospital and keeping them well informed," said President C. A. Bixler.

"We feel this procedure holds many advantages over an annual county-wide drive. The letters will not seek large contributions. They, however, do aspire to create regular contributions of modest sums, semi-annually or annually on the strength of the service rendered the county by the hospital," he added.

The directors also took steps to increase the capital funds of the hospital. This program looks forward to the time, five or even ten years in the future, when it will be necessary to erect another wing to the hospital to satisfactorily meet the needs of the county.

Plan Expansion

This phase of the financing program calls for annual subscriptions from industries, businesses and larger individual contributors which will be placed in a special building fund, the income from which, until

Here And There News Collected At Random

Just as the Pennsylvania Turnpike is leading the tollroad procession today, so the Philadelphia-to-Lancaster Turnpike, chartered in 1792, started the tollroad era of a century or more ago.

Myron Sterns, Fairfield Road, writing on "The Great Toll Road Mirage," in the October edition of Harper's, raises the question whether the new tollroad era is going to parallel the old.

The tollroad idea started by the Philadelphia-Lancaster venture was highly contagious. It seemed to offer fine roads without cost to taxpayers. Investors would build the roads; travelers would pay the dividends and maintenance costs. By 1801 there were five turnpike companies in Pennsylvania, 13 in New York, 48 in New England.

But it didn't pan out. Divi-

7 Communities Destroyed 2,500 Homeless, Vast Damage In Maine's Devastating Fires

Bar Harbor, Me., Oct. 25 (AP)—Police today sought to link one or more arsonists with Maine's devastating forest fires of the past several days after evidence purportedly had been uncovered that some of the many outbreaks had been set.

Already seven communities have been destroyed, damage has passed the $25,000,000 mark in Maine alone, and an estimated 2,500 persons have been made homeless.

The Red Cross said the homeless-displaced list might reach 6,000 and estimated that at least 506 permanent homes vanished in flames, together with hundreds of cottages.

Some Fires Set
Police investigation of the arson angle came as weary firefighters appeared to be gaining mastery over blazes throughout New England which contributed toward a national death toll of 13.

Even as Joseph A. P. Flynn, chief of Maine's insurance department's arson division said he had "well-grounded suspicions that some of the fires have been set," police at Biddeford reported they were questioning a suspect.

The youth was picked up after Biddeford police became suspicious of a fire which forced evacuation of two hospitals.

DEMOCRATS ARE URGED TO WORK

"There are so many things about which people are interested that this year should prove a most successful one—if we work," Lee M. Hartman, candidate for prothonotary, told the Democratic county committee Friday evening at a meeting in the court house here. Hartman was one of a number of candidates to give brief talks at the "get-acquainted" meeting held for the candidates and committeemen.

The necessity for the party's committee and members to work diligently in urging people to vote and in selling the Democratic idea to voters was stressed by all of the candidates and by Fred G. Klunk, Democratic county chairman.

Others who gave brief talks were the following candidates: G. Ed. Taughnbaugh, for county commissioner; Carl W. Kane, for county commissioner; Daniel E. Teeter, for district attorney; Walter J. Craumer, for sheriff; Wilbur V. Redding, for surveyor and Armer M. Weikert, for auditor.

William E. "Johnny" Knox was unable to be present because of the death of his father, Chairman Klunk told the committee, adding that the candidate for register and recorder regretted his inability to attend.

Klunk told the group that "interest in the forthcoming election has greatly increased during the past four or five days. People are starting to take more interest in the election and are talking mostly in our favor."

COURT DELAYS SENTENCE AGAIN

Demanding the presence of his ill mother and sister to testify in his behalf, Francis A. Shorb, near Emmitsburg, was again recommitted to jail by Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer in Circuit court at Frederick, Thursday, for sentencing later on a charge of being an accessory to the unauthorized use of an automobile, later wrecked.

Sentencing of Shorb had been deferred last week by the court when the man, appealing a year's House of Correction term imposed in magistrate's court, asked that his mother and his sister be summoned.

State's Attorney Edwin P. Nikirk said neither the mother, Mrs. Mary Shorb, 85, and in very poor health, or the sister, Mrs. Lottie Krietz, under doctor's care, were able to leave their homes in the Emmitsburg vicinity to attend the trial.

The state's attorney started to read from a statement furnished authorities by the mother but the judge halted the proceedings to ask Shorb whether he still desired the appearance of the witnesses.

Shorb replied that he thought it would "be best" if they were in court.

The judge then said the man would be confined to jail until the witnesses were able to appear. From the information the court and the state's attorney have received, he said, it appears the witnesses know nothing to help the appellant in the case and the judge said he considered Shorb's request for a continuance "unreasonable."

He also told the appellant not to ask for consideration, in the final sentence, for the time he had spent in jail.

The car involved belonged to Paul A. Alexander, Emmitsburg, and was wrecked near that town.

BATTLE LOOMS BETWEEN USSR, TURKEY IN U.N.

By JOHN A. FARRIS, JR.
Lake Success, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Soviet Union and Turkey prepared today to bring the diplomatic maneuvers of Hitler's agents into the United Nations debate on Russian charges of "warmongering" in the United States. The two countries were expected to clash over who collaborated the more—Russia or Turkey.

The stage for this clash was set last night when Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky and Selim Sarper, Turkey's chief delegate, announced they would produce German documents to back up their cases against each other's country.

As delegates prepared to continue debate today on a Russian resolution condemning alleged "warmongering" in the U. S., Turkey and Greece, American delegation sources said they were confident the Soviet resolution would be defeated. They said the U. S. would oppose all amendments to the Russian resolution.

13 More Speakers
Thirteen speakers were scheduled to be heard yet and it seemed unlikely that the 57-nation political committee of the U. N. assembly would be able to reach a vote today on the Soviet proposal.

The Russian-Turkish flareup came yesterday as Vishinsky delivered one of his longest speeches. Earlier, Sarper denied previous charges by Vishinsky that Turkey sought war, declaring there was no "warmongering" in Turkey. He formally accused Russia of "psychological aggression," "nefarious propaganda," "warmongering" and "interfering in Turkish internal affairs."

"Many Documents"
Vishinsky denied Sarper's charges and then produced a booklet which he said contained documents found in the chancellery at Berlin by the Red Army. He read several of what he described as letters from German and Turkish diplomats. They related mainly to German efforts to get Turkey into war. Vishinsky read passages which said Turkey desired a Russian defeat.

Sarper immediately sought the floor and said he would speak briefly, but would answer Vishinsky later in detail.

"There are many documents in the hands of the Allies," Sarper declared, "and if you cite a few it would be well to cite others that came before and after."

TRUMAN ASKS FOR 'PROMPT' ACTION ON AID

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Truman confronted the Republican Congress today with a demand for "prompt and courageous action" to halt runaway prices at home and snatch Europe back from the edge of economic disaster.

With this demand he coupled a sharp warning of his conviction that failure to act would lead to a depression in America and "totalitarian aggression" in Europe. This winter, he said, is a "decisive time in history."

Those, he told a national radio audience last night, are the reasons why he has summoned Congress into special session November 17.

Even before he spoke, and in comments immediately afterward, some of the Republican leaders in Congress made it clear that the Democratic administration will have a fight on its hands over measures to be taken.

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind.), House majority leader, and Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) chairman of the House banking committee, accused the President of "playing politics" by linking rising living costs with foreign aid.

"We could choose the course of inaction," he said. "We could wait until depression caught us, until our living standards sank, and our people tramped the streets looking for jobs. Other Democratic nations would lose hope, and become easy victims of totalitarian aggression. That would be the course of defeatism and cowardice."

"Our other course is to take timely and forthright action. If we do this, we can halt the spiral of inflation at home, relieve hunger and cold abroad and help our friendly neighbors become self-governing once again." (His original text read "self-supporting").

JUNIOR HIGH 11 WINS 6-0 OVER PHINEAS DAVIS

A second quarter touchdown in the last half minute of play gave the Gettysburg junior high football team its second straight victory here Friday night 6-0 over Phineas Davis junior high of York.

Several hundred fans turned out to see the locals in their first home game and were rewarded with a well played game.

Gene Sanders plunged over from the one-yard line for the lone tally of the game after Gettysburg marched 51 yards. His line plunge for the extra point failed.

Gettysburg dominated play throughout and was never seriously threatened.

In the opening period the locals secured possession of the ball on their own 20 through a punt and, with E. Sanders and Williams bearing the brunt of the attack, moved to Phineas Davis' 49 but Wallick recovered a fumble for the York outfit on his 45 to momentarily stop the drive. Two plays later Gettysburg recovered a fumble in midfield.

Gene Sanders intercepted Meckley's pass on the Maroons' 49 mid-way in the second quarter to pave the way for the score. Sanders tossed a pass to R. Miller for a first down on the visitors' 35. Another aerial Gene Sanders to Bob Sanders, was good for a first down on the 1 from where Gene Sanders plunged over.

Phineas Davis made its dearest penetration into Maroon territory late in the third period when a 15-yard penalty against Gettysburg put the Blue and Gold on the 34-yard line. Three straight plays were thrown for a total loss of 10 yards by the Gettysburg line and a 15-yard holding penalty set Phineas Davis back on its own 37.

Midway in the final period Myers swept around right end to a first down on the visitors' 46 to give Phineas Davis its only earned first down. Gene Sanders intercepted an enemy pass deep in Phineas Davis territory late in the final period and the game ended with the locals on the invaders' 25 yard line.

The proteges of Coaches Dick Folkenroth and Don Ulrich rolled up six first downs against but two for Phineas Davis. Gettysburg completed three of four passes while the visitors attempted two and both were intercepted.

Next Thursday Mechanicsburg junior high will be played here.

VILLANOVA AND DUQUESNE LOSE AS L.V. TRIUMPHS

Philadelphia, Oct. 25 (AP)—Pennsylvania's colleges headed into a heavy football schedule today after an even break in four games with out-of-state elevens.

In a fifth game played last night Albright edged Moravian in an intra-state tilt, 9-7, on a seven yard field goal booted by substitute Jay Sherrill in the last two minutes of play before a crowd of 5,000 at Bethlehem.

Scranton turned back Canisius 13-7 at Buffalo, N. Y., and Andy Kerr's flying Dutchmen from Lebanon Valley defeated Hofstra, 27-7, at Lebanon while Villanova dropped a 6-0 decision to Boston college at Boston and Duquesne was routed by Detroit at the motor city in the other four games.

Lebanon Valley, with Freshman Charlie Witman scoring twice on passes and once on a 85-yard run, tallied in all except the third period for the Dutchmen's third victory against an out-of-state foe.

Sparked by Quarterback Mike Denola, Scranton turned apparent defeat into victory with a last minute touchdown. Trailing 7-6 and pushed back to their own 27, the Scrantonians came to life in Denola's brilliant 33 yard run. Shortly thereafter Frank Mesoline bulled over from the one. Scranton scored first on Tom Flanagan's 58-yard run. Canisius tallied early in the last quarter after recovering a fumble on the Scranton 34, the touchdown coming on a fourth-down pass from Jacques Austin to Norm Castine.

A 55-yard touchdown run by Joe Diminick in the third period gave Boston college its triumph over the Wildcats of Villanova. Before the score Villanova went 54 yards only to have Al Schmidt fumble in the end zone and Maury Poissant recover for the Eagles.

Duquesne finally scored after being shut out in successive games by San Francisco, Alabama and Mississippi State but the Dukes were no match for the motor city eleven as Joe Wright racked up three first half touchdowns.

Today's program was headed by the clash between the unbeaten teams of West Virginia and Penn State at State College, the Navy-Penn fracas before some 78,000 fans at Franklin Field and Pittsburgh's attempt to get back on the victory trail against Ohio State at Pittsburgh.

Headline: City college holds Secret Drill. . . And holds most of its games the same way. . . Michigan fans tab Jack Weisenburger and Bob Mann as the Wolverines' "forgotten men." . . Jack merely makes that spin play work and Mann catches passes and runs like a half-back after he grabs the ball. . . Earl Blaik's move of shifting Bill Gustafson to left half on the Army team and installing Arnold Galiffa at quarter is just what some experts figured he'd do last spring. . . The Hofstra and Lebanon Valley college teams, which clash tonight, both are nicknamed "Flying Dutchmen." Lebanon Valley is coached by Andy Kerr, a Scot, and Hofstra by John Smith. . . One reason why Washington and Lee's Brian "Brains" Bell didn't look so good against Virginia, was that the trainer gave him some salt tablets to offset the heat and Bell swallowed them without water.

CLEANING THE CUFF
Tom Lockhart, who claims hockey is "the international sport," really has an international team in this year's New York Rovers. The squad includes two boys born in the United States, Ben Swarthout of Eveleth, Minn., and Angus McKay of Detroit; Gerald Claude, a French-Canadian from Valleyfield, Que., who only knows a few words of English; Bill Gikas, of Greek descent, and Larry Kwong, Chinese. . . Tommy Timlin, the pro football referee, proclaims: "The officials never commit the fouls. They just call them."

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Catawba college, a little North Carolina school whose team is coached by the able and vocal Chubby Kirkland, is out to bust all modern football scoring records and to tie the best mark it can find anywhere for consecutive non-shutout games. . . If Catawba makes even a safety against Elon tonight, it will mark the 72nd consecutive game in which the Indians have scored. . . From the time they began counting points in college football in 1833 to the final game against Princeton in 1839, Yale ran through 72 games without being blanked. . . That's counted as a record, but actually Yale scored in 80 consecutive games. The Elis went through eight games in 1882 in the same steamroller fashion but then the Big Three—the only colleges that meant anything in football—hadn't reached an agreement on scoring.

$75,000 At Stake At Jamaica Today

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—What's another $75,000 or so to a horse? Apparently it doesn't mean anything to good old Stymlie who seems to have tired of it all after winning $759,000.

Nevertheless Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' moody six-year-old chestnut goes after the $75,000 prize today in the gallant Fox handicap at Jamaica racetrack and the chance to regain the honor of being the turf's top money-winning horse.

Currently, Warren Wright's Armed tops the list with $761,500. Stymlie's $759,710. Thus Stymlie needs only to pick up fourth place money of some $3,000 to again go to the top.

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Harry Markson, the drummer, is preparing some fancy, formal announcements that the Messrs. Francis Albertanti and Harry Mendel will be associated with him in handling press relations for the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight title fight. . . That's just an indication that the break-busting trade isn't as dead as it has seemed all summer—not quite as lively as Harry would like. . . If business was good, there wouldn't be any need for such stunts. . . Walcott, about whom you'll hear plenty in the next month or so, is about to set up a training camp at Grenloch, N. J. . . That's on the Black Horse pike—in case you're interested in hunches about dark horses. . . Louis now on an exhibition, will check in at Pompton Lakes, N. J., Nov. 1 and start boxing four days later.

Watch from Towers, Planes
Rowland estimated the total forest fire damage this year at more than 30,000 of Pennsylvania's 15,000,000 acres of woodland, within the past three weeks.

Rowland said the 152 fire towers in the Commonwealth are maintaining an around-the-clock vigilance and are being supplemented by a force of 30,000 wardens and volunteers scattered at strategic points on the ground in all parts of the state.

In another precautionary move, viators flying over the Commonwealth equipped with radio have been requested to report forest fires immediately.

Meanwhile, the forest wardens as well as state game and fish wardens made ready to enforce Gov. James H. Duff's proclamation banning all hunting in Pennsylvania and closing state forest lands, effective tomorrow night at midnight.

Friday Morning Quarterback

Headline: City college holds Secret Drill. . . And holds most of its games the same way. . . Michigan fans tab Jack Weisenburger and Bob Mann as the Wolverines' "forgotten men." . . Jack merely makes that spin play work and Mann catches passes and runs like a half-back after he grabs the ball. . . Earl Blaik's move of shifting Bill Gustafson to left half on the Army team and installing Arnold Galiffa at quarter is just what some experts figured he'd do last spring. . . The Hofstra and Lebanon Valley college teams, which clash tonight, both are nicknamed "Flying Dutchmen." Lebanon Valley is coached by Andy Kerr, a Scot, and Hofstra by John Smith. . . One reason why Washington and Lee's Brian "Brains" Bell didn't look so good against Virginia, was that the trainer gave him some salt tablets to offset the heat and Bell swallowed them without water.

CLEANING THE CUFF
Tom Lockhart, who claims hockey is "the international sport," really has an international team in this year's New York Rovers. The squad includes two boys born in the United States, Ben Swarthout of Eveleth, Minn., and Angus McKay of Detroit; Gerald Claude, a French-Canadian from Valleyfield, Que., who only knows a few words of English; Bill Gikas, of Greek descent, and Larry Kwong, Chinese. . . Tommy Timlin, the pro football referee, proclaims: "The officials never commit the fouls. They just call them."

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Catawba college, a little North Carolina school whose team is coached by the able and vocal Chubby Kirkland, is out to bust all modern football scoring records and to tie the best mark it can find anywhere for consecutive non-shutout games. . . If Catawba makes even a safety against Elon tonight, it will mark the 72nd consecutive game in which the Indians have scored. . . From the time they began counting points in college football in 1833 to the final game against Princeton in 1839, Yale ran through 72 games without being blanked. . . That's counted as a record, but actually Yale scored in 80 consecutive games. The Elis went through eight games in 1882 in the same steamroller fashion but then the Big Three—the only colleges that meant anything in football—hadn't reached an agreement on scoring.

FIREBUGS POSE FOREST MENACE; 60 BLAZES IN PA.

Harrisburg, Oct. 25 (AP)—Fire watchers throughout Pennsylvania were keeping a 24-hour lookout over the state's bone-dry forests today as firebugs posed a fresh menace to woodland areas.

Horace B. Rowland, chief state forest fire warden, disclosed that state police have begun a full-scale probe of blazes of incendiary origin which are among the nearly 60 forest fires now burning in various sections of the Commonwealth.

"We'll crack down on those firebugs when the state police find them," Rowland declared, adding that forest fire wardens have what he said was conclusive proof that several of the fires were maliciously started.

1,000 Acres Destroyed
James N. Morton, chief of forest management of the department of Forests and Waters, termed the dryness of woodlands as "the worst ever" and said the emergency was "extremely serious."

A fire now burning under control at Renovo is the third serious forest fire within a week, Rowland said. More than 1,000 acres of pine were destroyed Tuesday in Pike county and another 800 acres levelled in Wyoming county last Sunday.

A change of wind direction and work of Boy Scouts was credited with saving the state hospital for criminal insane at Moosic Mountain near Honesdale from possible destruction in a forest fire raging nearby. The hospital was pronounced out of danger by fire fighting officials last night.

PUT VARIETY INTO YOUR LIFE

Variety can well be said to be the spice of life. It's the variety that one gives to his life that makes it interesting, and indeed outstanding. The broader one's interests, the more exciting every experience becomes.

Working day after day in a groove, with little to give change and variety, dulls the intellect and takes away from initiative. The person of independent mind and opinion always attracts attention, thereby gaining additional knowledge, for the more people we have interested in us, and the additional stimulus given to the mind, the more pleasurable becomes each contact and each experience.

The all-around athlete attracts more attention, and is more interesting, than the one given to one specialty. "Babe" Didrickson is an example of this.

Contrast and novelty are in the life experience of one who plays upon variety. Personality is enlivened and made to glow. We are all admirers of John Kieran, whose mind seems to spread over almost every subject under the sun! I am proud to know him as a friend, and he is just as interesting to talk to as he is to every listener on the radio. He is all wrapped up in variety!

My observation has been that those with a variety of interests are both happy and healthy. The physical body reacts joyously to the active and stimulated mind. Men like the late Justice Holmes, Dr. John H. Finley, Henry Ford and Mayor La Guardia were always "good copy," for their minds were ever alert, and their thoughts widely spread out. Whenever they spoke people listened.

People with varied interests have the least time to give to worries. Their variety of thought and action crowd out worry. Every ounce of variety that you put into your life returns pounds of hope, contentment, and satisfaction. Every variety far better than any vitamin B complex!

THE PLACID LIFE

Until that final crushing blow,
No life's more placid than the cow's.

Few tragedies are hers to know,
In pleasant fields she's left to browse.

Hers is the peaceful world of grass
And birch and elm and maple trees.

She sees the fretful humans pass
And chews her cud in perfect ease.

Her calf, grown up, has gone away,
But where she neither knows nor cares.

She rests by night and eats by day,
And that's the sum of her affairs.

But man must love and think and grieve
And learn how best to stand to strife;

Have faith and steadfastly believe
'Tis care that makes the richer life.

Harrisburg, Oct. 25 (AP)—The largest number in weeks, 7,212 persons, were dropped from the state's relief rolls during the week ended October 16, decreasing the total to 448,253.

The decline, said Karl D. Schweinitz, secretary of public assistance, reflected "absorption in private employment and an increase in the number of persons transferred to the federal works program."

During the week ended October 16, there were three relief cases closed in Adams county. None was opened. There remained at that time 60 cases on the rolls, representing 299 persons and an expenditure of $500.

RUSSIANS ARE REPATRIATING EX-CITIZENS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

This column has encountered—and solved, we hope, an intriguing Communist mystery which first gave a glimpse of itself several months ago and since then has kept popping up piecemeal in unrelated parts of the world, like a colony of prairie dogs.

Not to make too much mystery out of this development for our readers, it has to do with an intensive Soviet campaign to repatriate all Russians in foreign countries. Moscow never announced it as a campaign and it was only after these repatriations had been noted in numerous widely separated areas that observers decided something unusual was afoot.

11,000 From France
Thus far parties of Russians have returned to the homeland from Canada, the United States, South America, China, France, Ethiopia, the Middle East and quite likely from other countries. The total repatriated runs into many thousands. Some 11,000 are said to have returned to Russia, or to be returning, from France alone.

Whole families are being taken, with all their moveable belongings. In fact these people are being urged to carry back all they can, especially tools and surgical instruments. The Soviet government foots the bill for everything, and promises homes and jobs in Russia. Of course it is required that those repatriated renounce citizenship in their adopted countries. Yugoslavia also has been carrying out a similar program of repatriation.

"Daring Adventure"
Some of those being repatriated haven't set foot on Russian soil since Czarist days. Some of them were born abroad and so are making a voyage into the unknown. Indeed, it must be a daring adventure for all of them.

And why this attempt at wholesale repatriation? Well, your correspondent went to a good quarter which makes a business of solving mysteries, and the chief answer is that Russia is in great need of manpower and is anxious to get any and all of its people back home. The shortage of workers is understood to be very serious, owing to the terrific losses sustained in the war.

Need War Strength
Apart from this main issue, Moscow is said to want to get back the Russians who were displaced from their native soil during the ebb and flow of war. Many of these people are White Russians, and the government doesn't want them abroad, because there's a danger that they will talk about things which the Soviet wishes to keep dark.

The desire for manpower to rehabilitate Russian industry would be understandable under any circumstance. That calls for no explanation. However, we certainly should be slow witted indeed if we didn't recognize that one reason the Bolsheviks want to acquire industrial strength as quickly as possible is because of the requirements of their world revolution for the spread of Communism.

LIVING ON PAPER
It seems to me that one great trouble with our country, as well as the entire world, is that we all have been living on paper, instead of real money values.

From the laboring man, who bought a suit of clothes for $35.00 with a payment of $1.00 down, or an automobile for $1,500.00, with a payment of $50.00 down, or a home at $6,000.00 with a payment of $100.00 down and the balance paper, to the great captains of industry controlling millions and billions of dollars corporations who have floated paper at about one-fourth to one-half its intrinsic value, then finding they had used up all the paper that corporation would stand, they formed a holding company to sell more paper, it is most true that from the poorest to the richest, we all have been living on paper. This was all right until one day some man called for some real cash for the paper and not being satisfied with more paper, he demanded cash. That was the beginning of the break in Wall Street and has gone down throughout the land, putting thousands of banks to the wall and bankrupting millions of people. When we exchange this paper for real money, then and then alone will we begin to prosper.

I wrote this in 1929. Will we repeat this in 1949?

For safety's sake a little braking is a good way to humor those cross roads.

All this trouble with voltage regulators has brought to light some fairly simple ideas about such controls. Take the matter of their habit of acquiring fused points which result in their sticking and bringing on a chain of difficulties. Tests are repeatedly showing that such trouble is often due merely to running with the battery in need of water. The effect of a low electrolyte level is the same as that of an open circuit or a poor ground in the generator - battery circuit. Apparently when you fuss with such a simple matter as giving the battery a drink you are taking a long step in the direction of avoidance of serious electrical trouble.

Rear Springs and Shimmy

In view of the current wave of front-end alignment trouble you'll be interested in a recent case of shimmy at 25 miles an hour in a new car. A check showed that the front wheels had different camber and that the caster for both were incorrect. Naturally the mechanic who did the job thought he had solved the problem. A test, however, showed otherwise. The car shimmed at 25 as usual, although it would behave itself at all other speeds.

Here he departed from custom and started looking around the rest of the frame. It proved to be a good investment, for it wasn't long before he discovered that the front shackle of the right rear spring was binding. Its nut had come loose but the spring eye was cocked in a position where the spring itself couldn't function normally. Correcting this situation cured the front wheel shimmy.

One for the Book

Now and again you can do unorthodox things with automobiles, provided you make certain compensations. I was reminded of this when obliged to match 7.00 size front tire with a 7.50. Ordinarily that is strictly taboo. In fact both the mechanic and I figured we would run into trouble, that the car would pull to the side with the larger tire. When I took the wheel for a trial, however, the steering was well high perfect. You may have guessed already that this was because the smaller tire was inflated about four pounds more than the other. By maintaining this differential in pressure it is easy enough to offset the variation in size.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"To those who cannot understand how oil will suck up into the cylinders when the throttle is suddenly closed I should like to ask how they think the pistons can continue in motion unless they draw in air or mixture. With the throttle closed to the idling position and the pistons in motion not enough air can be drawn through the carburetor. Thus the pistons are forced to suck the balance of air via the rings and the crankcase. That is how they suck up oil."

"A lot of oil can be burned up this way without smoking at the exhaust. Every little abrupt slow down encourages the pistons to suck crankcase vapors and oil. Keep doing this time and time again in traffic and you can see how your oil mileage will take a nose-dive. You can avoid a lot of this through better driving."

business momentarily using the high beam to remind the oncoming driver that he has failed to drop his headlight rays will be interested in the news that a new invention calls for a small white center light mounted on the radiator grille. When this light is in operation the car's headlights are on the depressed beam. Anyone approaching would then know for a certainty just what the situation is. So would the police.

Some of the most alarming noises in cars have the least significance, so bear this in mind the next time the rear end seems to be falling off. I was reminded of this the other day when the tail pipe bracket broke off. This allowed the pipe to rattle against a splash pan through which it passed. The noise reminded me of a tin can on a dog's tail. For a few moments I really thought the car was giving up the ghost.

Another noise that alarms is the squealing of a slipping fan belt. Sometimes this is due to a little glaze on the belt's edge. It usually is heard when the engine is first started up, and invariably disappears after a few minutes of driving. Perhaps you have also been alarmed at the cracking sound heard when peeling up. This is due to a slightly loose rear wheel. Nothing to worry about, but simply to have taken care of when you are in the shop. The wheel is far from coming off.

No Fault of Engine

If the car seems to be losing its pep and you feel that a motor tune-up or something more extensive may be in order, better make sure that the speedometer isn't going awry. A drop of five miles or so in speed indication will give the impression of a marked drop in engine power. This is especially noticeable on hills where you are usually more conscious of speed. Sometimes your passengers will be the first to notice that the car actually is driving faster than the speedometer indicates. Or perhaps you have another car in the household and can make comparisons.

Origin of Shorts

Shorts in the car's electrical system can be due to a loose contact in one of the lesser used parts of the wiring such as the tonneau light or the light for the license plate. Such a contact provides an open circuit, allows voltage to build up when the lights are operating directly from the generator. That causes an overload and may result in burned out fuses or flickering when the circuit breaker goes into action.

A common cause of shorting is trouble with the dimmer switch. Located on the toeboard it may get an overdose of water and dirt, and then give trouble whenever you are flipping the lights from the far focus to the near, and vice versa.

One You Can Try

An excellent way to test your engine's efficiency is to follow another car down a hill and note if you have to apply the brakes as often or as vigorously as the one ahead. Watch those stoplights ahead and see if they are in action while you are applying the brakes. Your comparison car should, of course, be the same make and model as yours. And be sure that there is a comparable passenger load.

In the Motor Mail

Q. I am going to have the main bearings replaced. Should we use a new rear main bearing seal or would the old one be satisfactory?—H. N. D.
A. You had better replace this seal. Remember that on your car the engine and crankshaft must be removed in order to replace these bearings. You wouldn't want to run the risk of doing the job twice.

Q. In spite of the fact that the clutch has been serviced twice there still is a lot of chatter when starting or backing. Motor mounts have been replaced.—Wm. J. N.

A. How about the mounting for the transmission? You will find that any looseness here will cause misalignment. That, in turn, will bring on chatter of clutch and drive line. I am assuming in all of this that the clutch work itself was properly done. Often clutches are installed without any regard for balance with the flywheel.

Q. When I have gone about a block after first starting up the engine it dies. After awhile everything is normal. The rest of the starts during the day are the way they should be.—P. N. Jr.

A. Next time this happens note if the engine starts again the minute you re-crank. Note if pumping once or twice on the accelerator helps it to start. If so, the chances are that the choke isn't staying in effect long enough. Its control then needs adjusting. If restarting is slow (Continued on page 6)

There's EXTRA VALUE in the Tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

It's time to measure what you get for what you pay. No matter what you buy, the measure of true worth is in performance... how long it will serve you.

In tires there are several yardsticks... mileage, protection against bruising and road shocks, resistance to skidding. In all of these, the B.F. Goodrich Silvertown gives you extra value.

Its wider, flatter tread which covers more road area, spreads the wear more evenly. The more tire in contact with the road also means more tread to grip... to prevent skidding. Beneath this better tread is a 35% stronger cord body built with sturdier cords and more of them to give better resistance to road shock and bruising.

All this Extra Value adds up to today's big tire buy... the postwar B. F. Goodrich Silvertown—the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES.

White for a Shroud

By DON CAMERON

Chapter 14

Carol Johnson had a confession to make to Andy Brant. She said as much candidly, as they were finishing dinner together that evening in the Northland Cafe.

He raised his eyebrows, speaking lightly in the hope of lifting her out of her too-serious mood.

"Nothing shameful, I hope."

"I'm ashamed of it. Last night, about midnight, I heard a knocking sound and got up. Someone was at your door."

"It was Ella."

"Yes, I know. It was dark, but I recognized her in that white outfit. I-I stayed there at my door, watching."

"Well?"

She was in your room for a long time. Then both of you came out, and you had your arm around her."

He was embarrassed. "She told me what had happened to Mac. I had to put on some clothes before I could go with her. She was exhausted by what she's been through, and I had to steady her to keep her from falling. He went on, thinking of himself getting dressed. "It was even darker in my room than in the hallway."

"Oh, I understand all that. The thing is, I didn't understand it at the time. I didn't sleep. I lay awake, imagining the most awful things."

"You mean you thought—?" He regarded her incredulously. "My God, Scoop, what a mind you have! Ella is the wife of my best friend."

She sighed. "A lot of us women have dirty minds. Glenn was right when he said all of us were nuts. But I know how wrong I was and I'm ashamed. I want you to know I'm sorry and I hope you'll forgive me."

"There's nothing to be sorry about. There was no harm done." He was puzzled by her behavior. Why had she worried in the first place about whether there could be anything like that between him and Ella? Why had she decided, when her mind was finally set at rest, that she must confess and ask his pardon?

It would be more easily comprehensible if Carol were in love with him, but under the circumstances, . . . He smiled inwardly at his ridiculous fancy.

"What's your program for tonight?" he asked Carol, wanting to change the subject. "Going home, or going to celebrate the finish of another week?"

"If there are passes at the office I'm going to the Idle Hour Theater. A movie ought to give my brain a rest."

"Not this movie. Do you know what's showing?"

She nodded. "Down Among the Dead Men, a hair-raiser."

"You saw one dead man today. Aren't you ever satisfied?"

"That one was real." She shivered. "It's different when you know it's a game, and no matter how hopeless things look everything will come out all right. You're never really scared, but you get a thrill, and it lets out emotions that aren't good to bottle up inside you. At least, that's what I read somewhere."

"You win," he said. "There are passes, and they're all yours. I'd go with you if I didn't have to pay a visit to the Macfarlanes."

He looked at his watch and saw that it was nearly 7. He was impatient to see Ella and her husband and discover, if he could, Mac's reason for not wanting to get well. If it had to do with Crane, Brant had a new theory, rejecting the notion of a shredded body in the pulp vat, that might change the wounded man's point of view. If it was something else entirely, he and Ella together might be able to work out a cure.

He got the passes from his office and gave them to Carol. He watched her depart, her slim body silhouetted briefly against the pale glow of street lamps. She was an unpredictable youngster, he thought, but a completely likable one. One of these days she would make a fine wife for some lucky man—although off-hand, he could not think of any man who was good enough for her.

He was halfway to the Macfarlanes' when Quarfield caught up with him.

"Hold on a minute, Andy."

Brant halted. "What's bothering you, Glenn?"

"Big Al Nowka," Quarfield was furious. "He came into the restaurant a while ago, crazy drunk. Nobody was in the place besides Lola, except Merkel, the cook, in the kitchen. Nowka grabbed her. Merkel heard the racket and came running out with a knife, and Nowka had sense enough left to beat it. When I think what might have happened—"

"Look for Worth at the courthouse," Brant advised. "He'll see that Nowka sobers up in jail—and stays there longer if Lola wants to bring charges against him."

Quarfield said darkly, "They ought never to let him out of jail if they get him in. You know what I think? I think he killed Charlie King."

"What makes you think that?"

"Well, Nowka was drunk in Oliphant's when Lola and I were having beer there last night. He went out about 11, just a few minutes before we did. Lola and I turned down Alger Avenue, to keep out of the drifts around the mill, where the wind had a clean sweep. I had to

TAFT FORMALLY ENTERS FIGHT FOR PRESIDENCY

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—Senator Albert A. Taft of Ohio formally announced his candidacy Friday for the 1948 Republican Presidential nomination, describing the race as wide open.

Taft's long-expected formal entry was contained in a letter to Fred T. Johnson, chairman of the Ohio Republican State committee. The committee and other Ohio GOP groups had urged him to make the race last July 31.

The letter was written before President Truman's announcement to Taft and other Congressional leaders that he was calling a special session of Congress November 17.

Taft wrote Johnson that he would keep speaking engagements already lined up but that after the Senate met in 1948 he would be too busy here to make a personal campaign for the nomination.

Considers New Trip

The Senator hurried from Thursday's White House conference to catch a plane for Cincinnati where he delivered an off-the-record talk at the Commonwealth club last night. It was not learned immediately whether the special session call might cause any change in his speaking plans.

These have yet to be announced. But Taft has been considering a trip through Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and possibly Texas. His September-October sentimentalizing journey took him 12,000 miles through California and the northwest states.

The Senator designated Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Ohio's Republican National Committeeman, as his pre-convention campaign manager.

Taft told Johnson he was no "present intention" of entering any other state primaries because, he said, that would require an active personal campaign and more time and money "than are available."

GUARD TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

Harrisburg, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Pennsylvania National Guard will mark the 200th anniversary of founding of the Keystone state's first citizen soldiery on Nov. 21.

Brig. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general, urging appropriate ceremonies to commemorate the event, said today:

"Every community of the state should be rightly proud of its national guard. The 200th anniversary gives us appropriate occasion to say our heartfelt thanks to the citizen soldiers who through the years were quick to answer the call, whether for flood and disaster duty in peace or to bear arms in war."

He recalled that the 11th Infantry of Philadelphia, now commanded by Col. Arthur D. Kemp, of Yeading, is the direct descendant of the first citizen army, organized by Benjamin Franklin on Nov. 21, 1747, as an "association" to fight in the French and Indian wars.

It participated in the earlier battles of the American Revolution until March 17, 1777, when it was merged with the state militia, which eventually became the national guard in 1870.

Old Methodist School Changes Its Name

Williamsport, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Williamsport Dickinson college is no more.

The name of the 100-year old Methodist school now is Lycoming college. Announcement of the change in names, made to avoid confusion with Dickinson college at Carlisle, was announced yesterday by President Dr. John W. Long.

The name was selected from the county in which the school, now going into a four-year curriculum instead of a two-year college, is located.

Goals in his eyes.

"A man never knows how many enemies he's got till he's flat on his back," he growled. "Then, when he can't defend himself, all the ones he thought were his friends start making him miserable. They cut off his liquor when he needs it worst; they fill him up with pills that make him dizzy; they bawl him out because he wants to enjoy what little time he's got left."

"That's what you get for playing with guns. Next time you'll be more careful."

"Next time . . . Mac did not finish what he had started to say. Instead he slanted his eyes toward Ella. Darling, will you leave us alone for a few minutes?"

As the door closed behind her, Mac mumbled huskily, "God never made a finer person."

"We won't argue about that. You ought to be the happiest man in the world."

"I was."

"You will be again before many days. I had a talk with Sperry this afternoon. He says a machine gun couldn't stop you."

"He does eh?" Mac bit the end from a cigar. "Sperry is an incurable liar like all doctors. This is my ninth, Andy. I feel it in here." He tapped his chest.

9-Day-Old Babe Is Youngest Passenger

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Daniel Peter Lawrence will have to have some one tell him about his first airplane ride.

Daniel Peter was flown with his mother yesterday to his home at Corona, Long Island, N. Y., from Wilkes-Barre, where he was born nine days ago.

American airlines officials said the child was the youngest passenger ever carried on one of their planes.

Cancer Detection Clinic Is Planned

Harrisburg, Oct. 25 (AP)—The proposed establishment of a cancer detection clinic at Warren was under study Friday by the Pennsylvania Cancer Commission of the Medical Society of Pennsylvania.

"The proposal has been submitted to the commission and a sub-committee composed of Dr. Robert F. McNattin, chief of the division of cancer control and Sen. L. E. Chapman, of Warren, has been named to study it and report at another meeting of the commission on November 12," stated Dr. Martin S. Kleckner, of Allentown, chairman of the commission.

"If this proposal looks good we are going to approve it," Dr. Kleckner said, adding that the group is interested in the establishment "of a lot of clinics for the detection and prevention of cancer."

The blast furnace was invented in the 15th Century.

RAEBIT SHOW IS HELD

The Hanover and McSherrystown Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' association held its annual fall show last Sunday at the K. of C. hall in McSherrystown. Exhibits came from points as far distant as California.

J. O. Snyder, Hampstead, Md., exhibited a number of chinchilla pelts he produced. Mr. Snyder was in Gettysburg Friday en route to Milwaukee for the national convention of the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' association.

The U.S. Merchant Marine in 1946 contained almost two-thirds of all the world's shipping tonnage. It was estimated that there were 12,435 commercial ships afloat throughout the world in 1946.

the capital sum is needed for building, will be added to the general operating funds of the hospital each year.

"Our hospital is no longer a small institution," President Bixler explained, "and we are faced with two problems. First, high costs prevent us from operating the hospital within its income from patients and from the county and the state. Second, we must begin to provide now for the expansion that is necessary in the future."

"We believe the two programs set up at our meeting Friday night provide for both contingencies and that the people of Adams county will realize immediately that they express the board's determination that first class hospital service will be maintained for Adams counties both now and in the future."

Administrator Walter R. Doud and Dr. R. W. Gifford, president of the hospital medical staff, both of whom attended and participated in the meeting, reported the hospital is in fine condition.

The process of merging the original building to the new Musselman Memorial annex is about completed. Mr. Doud reported. The old building has been completely rewired and repainted. Changes made in the operating suite have greatly improved the facilities of that department, he said.

Mrs. Carrie Jones, of Drexel Hill, Philadelphia. They also spent a day in Atlantic City where they attended the Public Health convention.

The matron of honor wore an azure blue gown of transparent velvet and chiffon with a shirred and draped bodice, three quarter length sleeves and a bouffant chiffon skirt. Her headdress was an azure blue feather hat. She carried an arm bouquet of red roses and orchid colored pompons.

The bridesmaids wore gowns duplicating the one worn by the matron of honor, in fuchsia, with matching flower hats. They carried arm bouquets of pink roses and pale pink carnations. The flower girl wore white satin and carried a white basket filled with pink rosebuds, white pompons, orchid asters and baby's breath.

The rings were carried on an ivory satin heartshaped pillow, edged in lace.

Wedding Breakfast

Miss Anna C. Weaver, church organist presented a fifteen-minute recital prior to the ceremony. Francis Shaum, Taneytown, was soloist and prior to the ceremony, he sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother" and "Mother, at Your Feet is Kneeling." During the mass, immediately following the ceremony, he sang "Ave Maria," at the offertory of the mass "Panis Angelicus" and during the Holy Communion "O Lord I Am Not Worthy." The wedding marches of Carl Rossini were used.

The church altars were decorated with ferns, baskets of white chrysanthemums and pompons, and lighted candles. The pews occupied by the relatives of the bride and the groom were marked off with white satin ribbon bows.

A wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and the immediate families at the Trotter Inn, where the bride's brother is employed. The table decorations were cut flowers and candles.

On Wedding Trip

The couple left on a wedding trip to New York state and points in New England. The bride's going away outfit was a black street length dress with black accessories and she wore an orchid corsage. Upon their return, the couple will reside temporarily in newly furnished rooms at the home of the groom's parents.

Prison Board Is Blamed For Break

Reading, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—The Berks county prison board has blamed the Tuesday night escape of four prisoners from the Berks county jail on faulty latches on a heavy wooden door and the possible negligence of two guards.

The prison board revealed its findings at a special session last night after inspecting two heavy doors that had been forced open and questioning Warden Cyrus R. Reichard, a deputy and guards on duty at the time of the break.

The board said the two guards stationed at the block where the quartet escaped through a forced door will be called for questioning at another hearing. The guards were identified as John W. Rain and Harold J. Smith.

Dog's Bark Leads To Finding Man's Body

Oxford, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—A dog's barking led to discovery of the body of a man burned to death in a brush fire at nearby Nottingham.

The dead man, Frank Featherman, 46, was owner of the Shady Side room at Nottingham.

Neighbors said the man had been burning leaves near his home yesterday when the fire got out of control. Firemen extinguished the blaze.

Later, neighbors found the dog—a Chesapeake retriever—standing guard over his master's body.

Police said Featherman had been in ill health and probably collapsed and fell into the burning brush.
